

Thank you for your interest in the PATHFNDR studies.

Crinetics is actively recruiting patients to participate in clinical trials for ONCE-DAILY, ORAL paltusotine, an investigational drug being studied for the treatment of acromegaly. We would like to ask for your help in letting your patients know about the work we are doing.

The PATHFNDR studies are Phase 3, randomized, placebo-controlled, multi-center studies to evaluate the safety and efficacy of paltusotine, a nonpeptide, orally bioavailable somatostatin receptor 2 (SST2) agonist taken once daily. Participating patients will be randomly assigned to paltusotine or placebo in a 1:1 ratio. In case of IGF-1 levels and symptoms worsening, rescue medication will be used according to protocol pre-specified criteria. All rescued patients will remain in the study and will be continuously monitored for safety. In previous phase 2 studies, paltusotine maintained IGF-1 and GH levels after switching from injected SRL peptide depots, octreotide LAR or lanreotide depot monotherapy.

The accompanying resources are your Referral Toolkit, designed to make it easy for you to refer patients to the PATHFNDR studies. Please consider referring patients who may qualify. The kit includes:

- A doctor-to-patient letter & email you can send to inform patients about the studies
- PATHFNDR e-brochures that answer common patient questions about the trials
- A phone call outline to guide you in patient conversations about the PATHFNDR studies

Please remind your patients that:

- Travel costs for study participants plus one other person are covered.
- Participants who cannot easily reach a study site may be able to take advantage of home nursing visits for some of the required appointments.

Crinetics is intently focused on improving the lives of people living with rare endocrine diseases. We are excited and grateful to partner with you in taking the next step towards delivering a new treatment option for acromegaly patients.

If you have any questions, or would like to speak with a study doctor, please don't hesitate to reach out to us.

CALL 858-450-6464

EMAIL US

Sincerely,
The Crinetics Team

---